AGRICULTURAL SECTOR IN IRAQ

AS OF 2007, THE IRAQI GOVERNMENT HAS LAUNCHED A NATIONAL INITIATIVE TO PROMOTE THE AGRICULTURAL SECTOR WITH THE OBJECTIVE OF REACHING SELF-SUFFICIENCY IN CROPS PRODUCTION, WITHIN A 10-YEAR-SPAN

The Supreme Committee for Agricultural Development set up several initiatives to support various agricultural sub-sectors, including irrigation water use, agricultural lands, crop and animal production and agricultural loans.

The Committee recently announced an agricultural projects implementation plan within the 2012 budget. Moreover, the Iraq Ministry of Agriculture is encouraging major international agriculture companies, and foreign investors, to engage in long-term investments in the Iraqi market, besides granting special agricultural loan programs. Since the launching of the national initiative, the amount of agricultural loans has reached about USD 770 million.

FOOD SECTOR IN IRAQ

Iraq relies heavily on imports to meet its food requirements. Food self-sufficiency is not expected to be achieved in the foreseeable future due to 2 main reasons: the growth in population, expected to reach 40 million within a decade, resulting in an increase of consumption, and a decline in the agricultural production.

As a result of the rise in purchasing power in Iraq, new types of food entered the local market, such as diet and high nutritional value food, organic food and western food.

- Iraq imports 80% of its food needs
- Iraqi Ministry of Trade imported in 2011 food supplies for a value of US$ 6 billion
- Iraqi private sector food imports in 2011 reached nearly US$ 10 billion
- The annual food demand in Iraq increased by 25% in 2011 compared to 2010
